PREFACE

The Mormon Classification Schedules were originally developed in 1958 at Brigham Young University in response to a perceived need for a more detailed breakdown of the literature of Mormonism than was provided by Dewey Decimal Classification (DDC), which was then the principal scheme for classification at the BYU library. The work caught the interest of others in the state and a committee was organized by the Utah Library Association to prepare an edition of the schedules for use by libraries throughout Utah. The first edition, prepared by the Committee on Mormon Classification, appeared in 1959; a second edition, entitled Classification Schedule and Subject Headings for Mormon Literature, was published in 1962 by the Technical Services Committee of the Utah Library Association.

The new schedules not only provided an expanded analysis of Mormon literature, but they also incorporated language and concepts thought to be more familiar and logical to the body of predominantly LDS users at BYU. In addition, they broadened the spectrum of the Mormon collections by drawing in not only theological topics, but also aspects of Mormons and the Mormon Church in the social sciences and humanities. Many works may be included in the Mormon Classifications Schedules which would be classed with sociology, literature, etc. in other schedules.

Within these schedules, topics were assigned numbers in the range from 200 to 299. An M prefix was affixed to each number to set the range apart from other religion numbers in the Dewey 200 schedule. In 1977, when the library at BYU switched to the Library of Congress Classification Schedules (LCCS) as its primary scheme, a new edition of the schedules was issued by BYU in which the M2C stem on each number was converted to BX86C to allow items classed using the schedules to be arranged in an LCCS-classed collection. To facilitate reclassification, the library continues to use C.A. Cutter's Three-Figure Author Table rather than the Library of Congress cutter table to create cutter numbers for items classed in the revised schedule. Since BYU still uses DDC for some collections containing Mormon materials, the same numbers are sometimes used with interchangeable stems. In each case, the numbers are equivalent; e.g., M240 (Doctrinal theology) is equivalent to BX8640. Other than using a common stem and common structure, there is no correspondence between numbers in the Mormon Classification Schedules and numbers in the LCCS BX8600-8699 range or the DDC numbers for the Mormon Church.

This new edition of the schedules is the first to be produced from an electronic file. My goal in doing this was to facilitate future updates and thus to allow for a more dynamic list. I have arranged the schedules in a format similar to that used in the LC classification schedules or Gale's SuperLCCS so that they might be more easily readable to users familiar with these schedules. In addition, I have added cross references, scope notes, and new terminology to help link subject terms in prior editions with terms commonly used by the Library of Congress. I also compared the list against the online call number index and relevant shelf lists at BYU to determine those numbers which, if any, of the numbers had never been used at BYU. Using this information, I was able to identify numbers that had been subdivided beyond what was needed as well as areas where the same concept had been assigned to more than one number. As a result, I have cancelled or merged some unused numbers from the earlier edition in an effort to make the list more representative of actual collections at BYU.

*Dale Swensen
April 1997*

The 2009 update includes many new numbers as well as additional cancellations. Cancelled numbers are shown in parentheses, with cross references to the new or preferred numbers. In many cases, captions for numbers included in previous editions have been modified or expanded to improve clarity. The index has been updated accordingly to reflect any new numbers or changed captions.

*Dale Swensen
June 2009*

The 2013 update includes some new numbers and cancellations, but primarily gives more specific direction for BYU policies on classification of biographical and literary materials. A new appendix outlines in detail the BYU policy for assigning Mormon BX8670 classification numbers to materials and when to classify materials in the Library of Congress CS schedule.

*Kayla Willey
February 2013*

The 2019 update includes some minor corrections, corrections in Old and New Testament classification, and additions to the other branches and sects of Mormonism classification section and the Mormon Sects index.

Comprehensive works on Mormonism

8600

General treatises. Compendia

For works which discuss Mormonism in general. This should include official publications of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, writings of church members and non-Mormon authors, as long as the purpose of the work is to discuss or explain the church rather than to discredit it. Works which are antagonistic to the Church, or that are written to disprove Mormonism should be classified in BX8609.

8600.02

Pictorial works.

8600.1

Philosophy of Mormonism

Works which deal with the philosophical basis of Mormonism as it relates to Mormon theology, ecclesiastical organizations and history, yet cannot be classified as doctrine and placed in BX8630.

8600.3

Statistics

For general statistics only. Put statistics of a specific subject under the subject number, e.g. Priesthood Statistical Bulletin, BX8651.

8600.4

Philology and linguistics

*Church vocabulary in foreign languages, word lists, etc.

8600.9

Documents and sources

8601

Bibliography

Bibliographies of Mormon works regardless of subject.

8602

Quotations. Ready references

General ready reference works as well as those especially designed for missionaries. References on specific subjects, such as doctrine, should be classified with that subject. Works taken from books of scripture or specific scriptures should be put with the scriptures or with the specific scripture from which it is taken. (e.g. Book of Mormon, BX8622.02).

8603

Almanacs, dictionaries, encyclopedias

Works of a comprehensive nature. Material on a specific subject should be classed with the subject (e.g. dictionary on the Book of Mormon, BX 8622.03). Prefer BX8600.4 for linguistic dictionaries and word lists.

Church conferences, conventions, and regional meetings

Official meetings of the Church only. Class collected papers from scholarly meetings convened by other organizations to discuss aspects of Mormon studies with the subject or in 8608 if general. Conventions of a particular auxiliary should be placed with that auxiliary in BX8657.

8604.1

General conferences

Cutter reports of the annual and semi-annual conferences under A1 and arrange by date. Add work letters for non-English translations (e.g. A1du, etc.)

APPENDIX 1

BYU Policy on classification of biography, family history, and genealogical materials

In the Mormon Classification Schedules for the Harold B. Lee Library BX 8670 is reserved for Biography. In this schedule, BX 8670.1 is reserved for biographies of individual Mormon men and family histories (Mormon women are in BX 8670.07). While there is a distinction between a family history and a genealogy, no distinction is made in the Mormon classification system used by the HBLL, and no clarification is given as to what constitutes a Mormon family history/genealogy. After reviewing hundreds of items, Connie Lamb and Mike Hunter found the following situations:

1. The collection in BX 8670.1 contains biographies, family histories and pure genealogies.
2. The collection contains genealogies in which the person(s) who compiled the genealogies were Mormon, although none of the individuals in the genealogies were Mormon.
3. The collection contains genealogies in which branches of the family contained Mormons although a majority of the genealogy was about non-Mormons.
4. The collection contains genealogies in which all family members were Mormon.

While the unique nature of our Mormon Collection is understood and appreciated, it seems that in this case the Mormon classification system is dividing like books in a confusing manner since most family histories/genealogies are in CS 71. We believe the majority of patrons are looking for Mormon family histories/genealogies, not because they contain Mormons but because they contain family histories/genealogies. The system puts a heavy burden on the cataloger to identify a particular family history/genealogy as Mormon since most pure genealogies do not identify the religions of the persons listed and many family histories contain information about Mormons and non-Mormons. The attempt to identify every family history/genealogy as either Mormon or non-Mormon seems to be stretching the system beyond its purpose. We do have a great many "Mormon genealogies" in the CS numbers simply because it was impossible for the cataloger to identify the people as Mormons.

We are suggesting that the BX 8670.1s be reserved for Mormon biographies of men and that genealogies and family histories be placed in the Library of Congress classification of CS. Advantages to this would be that it would be easier for the cataloger to classify since he or she would not have to determine at what point a genealogy becomes a "Mormon genealogy," and with a CS classification, the books would be available to researchers on Sundays

In the future, the cataloger could use the following guidelines for the open stacks:

If a book is the life story of an individual Mormon man, it would go to BX 8670.1.

If the book is a biography with some genealogy, it should still be classified in the BX 8670.1s because the purpose of the book is to highlight the life of an individual and giving genealogical background on an individual is often part of biographical writing.

If the book is purely made up of an individual's genealogy, it should be classified in the CS numbers with all other genealogies.

If the book is a family history of a Mormon family, it should still be placed in the CS numbers because in most cases, the history starts with an individual family that happens to be Mormon but branches into many lines that contain Mormons and non-Mormons. Also, most libraries, except for very specialized libraries, have not attempted to distinguish between pure genealogy and family history.

Mike Hunter and Connie Lamb have looked at every book classified in BX 8670.1. The vast majority are biographies. However, there are 221 items that we have identified as family histories/genealogies. These items have been labeled on a 331 page printout from our catalog of all items classified in the BX 8670.1s. We think it would serve the patrons better to have all genealogies and family histories moved to the CS numbers so that they are all together for browsing by genealogist and family historians.
